A fiber represents a unit of work.

It means that fiber represents a computation triggered by a data change.

This allow us to:

- pause work and come back to it later.
- assign priority to different types of work.
- reuse previously completed work.
- abort work if it's no longer needed.